Northwestern University invites applications for a full-time, tenure track position at the Assistant Professor level to join the world-class faculty Northwestern University’s Stage Design MFA program. The faculty is committed to pushing the form of design, and the pedagogy surrounding it, forward and looks for a candidate with similar vision.

Candidates should be active practitioners in the field, with a national or international profile, possess an MFA, or have significant commensurate professional experience, have experience teaching design and related technical courses, and have experience with media and projection design. Teaching responsibilities include teaching undergraduate and graduate lighting design studio classes, collaboration classes, and skills classes. Expertise with Vectorworks is required. Responsibilities also include mentoring students on production assignments and graduate thesis advising.

Applications and supporting documents (cover letter, current CV, and the contact information of two references) will be accepted only by online submission at the following link: https://facultyrecruiting.northwestern.edu/apply/NDc=

Review of applications will begin January 3, 2018 and continue until the position is filled.

The Department of Theatre is located on Northwestern’s Evanston campus, just North of Chicago, IL, and has productions spaces housed in the Virginia Wadsworth Wirtz Center for Performing Arts, our recently renovated production facility featuring two mainstages, six black boxes, three instructional black boxes—including a state of the art light lab—, as well as graduate level wet and dry studios and dedicated computer lab.

Northwestern University is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer of all protected classes, including veterans and individuals with disabilities. Women, underrepresented racial and ethnic minorities, individuals with disabilities, and veterans are encouraged to apply. Hiring is contingent upon eligibility to work in the United States.
